

Agribusiness in Egypt: Harvesting A Sector's Potential

Beneath the headlines of Egypt's agricultural dealings are a layer of factors that serve to colour its status. Understanding the facts and figures is one thing; but reading between the lines to identify political exposure and opacity is another. This report explores the governance and integrity trends in the country's agribusiness sector, providing insight into the pitfalls and opportunities on offer as well as assessing those in a position to exert influence over agriculture more generally.

Included with the report are a series of organisational diagrams highlighting the sector's governance patterns and interest groups.
